Report on drug abuse may inflame, not quell battle

WASHINGTON (AP) - A White House report on drug abuse appears to have inflamed rather than quelled a battle inside the government on how the war against drugs ought to be fought and who should do most of the fighting.

Written by a task force of President Ford's Domestic Council, the report recommended a de-emphasis of law enforcement measures aimed against "recreational" marijuana users who privately possess or consume pot. Efforts to stop the spread of heroin and other dangerous drugs should take priority over efforts to suppress the private consumption of marijuana, the report said.

It also recommended that firm steps be taken to stop the rivalry and squabbling that have marked the relationship between the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration and the U.S. Customs Service, the nation's two top narcotics law enforcement organizations. Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill.,

ranking minority member of the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee which has probed alleged corruption inside DEA, said he believes the task force did not investigate "some of the fundamental shortcomings in narcotics law enforcement."

Percy said he believes far more substantial changes are necessary, "starting with a settlement, at long last, of the seething and counterproductive dispute between the Drug Enforcement Administration and the Customs Service...

The Customs Service long has objected to the 1973 reorganization plan in which the DEA was given primary responsibility for investigating narcotics smuggling in the United States and abroad. The reorganization limited the role of Customs to seizures of contraband at the bor-

Probe of collision with Ford car asked

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford's top aide has asked the Secret Service to report on how the collision between the President's limousine and another car in Hartford, Conn., could have happened, White House press secretary Ron Nessen said today.

The teen-ager who drove his car into Ford's armor-plated limousine said he entered the intersection and accidentally crashed into the presidential motorcade because he had a green light.

Nessen said White House staff coordinator Donald Rumsfeld has asked the Secret Service to say, among other things, why there was no police protection at the intersection where the teen-ager's car rammed the presidential automobile.

'The White House is wondering how in the world a car could do something like that," Nessen told reporters. He said the President did not appear to have any after-effects from the night. Hartford incident marked at least the second time in recent weeks that local police failed to block an intersection along a presidential In Chicago two weeks ago, police failed to block an entrance ramp to the Kennedy

Expressway as Ford's motorcade drove toward the ciy from O'Hare International Airport.

As a result, the motorcade encountered a traffic jam of homeward-bound motorists and was forced to halt for five minutes until a path through the traffic jam could be cleared.

In Hartford, the driver of the other car, 19-year-old James Salamites, was questioned and voluntarily took a sobriety test, police said. There were five other teen-agers in his Buick, but none of them was seriously

"I don't see where he did anything wrong," police Lt. Thomas Grant said of the Meriden, Conn., teen. Police said no charges would be considered against Salamites until blood test results were available in

A police spokesman, explaining how it was possible for an auto to get a clear run at Ford's car, said police were only guarding intersections within two blocks of the President's departure point. The incident occurred three blocks

"I feel fine, I feel great," Ford said shortly afterwards. The presidential limousine stopped only briefly before taking the President to the airport for the trip back to Washington.

A Secret Service spokesman said of the incident, there was "no reason to believe it was anything but an accident."

It was little more than a fender bender for the heavily fortified limousine. But the Buick sustained heavy damage to the front, which hit the limousine's right front fender.

balanced budget, tax cut changes his vote from negative to affirmative, and The Finance Committee reported the county General Fund budget for next year is in balance; that expected expenses are down $110,000 from this year and the tax rate will drop by at least 31/2 cents. During the Tuesday afternoon session of the Lee County Board, the committee opened the federal revenue fund coffers and asked the members which submitted spending requests from revenue sharing funds should be included as committed.

When the board finished with this business uncommitted revenue sharing funds were reduced from $321,000 to $122,500 and the budget was balanced by $16,500.

The latter came about when a request for $16,-500 was brought up to pay for the current year contract the soil survey project and the board was advised the funds could not be taken from revenue

Charles Dunphy, District 1, questioned commit-tee member Donald Burke, District 3, at some length and was told if the amount was inserted into the budget, the General Fund would show a deficit

Dunphy made a motion that the amount be included in the new budget and it passed on a voice

During the discussion about some of the spending requests, members repeatedly asked committee members how the fund budget was balanced, indicating they might not agree with what the commit-

Burke told them the budget will be printed and distributed to them in about two weeks.

Herbert Henning, District 3, also a committee member, asserted, "We should not hide what we did from the members. They should know we used $140,000 of revenue sharing fund to balance the budget and that we transferred $100,000 of the amount received from the sale of the nursing home property to the rent fund which resulted in lowering the spending reflected in the General Fund and will ower the tax rate by about 31/2 cents. The board got into the most protracted discussion in considering whether to include the estimated cost of conducting a reappraisal of property in the county as to be paid from revenue sharing funds.

After three roll call votes, two of which ended in ties, the board, on a 16 to 9 tally, agreed to insert $150,000 to be paid from the sharing funds if a reappraisal of property is conducted.

With two members absent, the first roll call ended in a 13 to 13 tie, and Irvin Koch, District 2, board chairman, ruled the motion lost.

Bernard Sexton, District 4, who voted "no" on the question asked for reconsideration of the motion. Burke, board parliamentarian, said Since Sexton voted with the prevailing side, he was entitled to ask for a reconsideration of the motion.

On the motion to reconsider the motion, the vote was 14 to 12. Three members changed their votes. Sexton changed from "no" to "yes"; Koch, also changed his vote from affirmative to negative and Glenn Padgett, District 4, switched his vote from

The third roll call was to vote again on the original motion. On this tally, Merle Topper, District 1, David Considine, District 1, who had voted "no" on the two previous roll calls had left for work before his name was called on the third roll call.

Finance committee reports

Topper, a member of the Road and Bridge Committee, made the first request for the uncommitted revenue sharing fund when he asked $20,000 be earmarked for purchasing radios for the county highway department.

He said the equipment will mainly be used in snowplows, explaining now when a snowplow gets stuck no one knows about it until the operator is able to get to a telephone

Topper reported to be effective in all parts of the county the system should include two radio towers. He also revealed the system could probably be tied into that of the county sheriff.

Topper also requested and got approval for $8,000 to be used to purchase four acres of land adjacent to the highway department garage in Amboy. Lowell Beggs, District 1, chairman, Nursing and Welfare Committee, asked and received approval for $4,100 to be allocated to pay for a generator hook-up at the nursing home. Warren Faber, District 2, chairman, Rules Committee, received an okay to allocate $1,500 of revenue shering funds to pay for paper and postage to send members committee reports.

The board without discussion gave its nod to a transfer of $1,000 between funds of the County Health Department. The necessity of this fund transfer came about because the health department board agreed to raise the salary of the department dentist, Gary Burg, from $22,500 to $25,000 on his first anniversary of working for the department.

Burg's salary was budgeted at $22,500 for the entire year, hence, the appropriated amount will run out before the end of the fiscal year because of the unappropriated increase in pay. In other business, the board learned from Topper the Road and Bridge Committee has studied purchasing and burying a 10,000-gallon gasoline tank at the highway department property at an estimated cost of $6,500. He indicated the committee thought the cost was too high.

Last week when the Finance Committee conducted its second interview with Sheriff Ray Nehring, the question came up about the county pooling gasoline purchase to effect reducing the expenses.

The sheriff agreed it would be a good idea and told the committee the road group had discussed the idea of buying and burying a tank but gave up the notion because they thought the cost was too high.

The Finance group and the sheriff concluded the road group should take up the idea for further study, indicating the savings to be realized on gasoline purchases may be significant enough to warrant going ahead with acquisition of a gasoline tank. Robert Burrs, District 3, chairman, County Property Committee, revealed the low bidder for carpeting the Courthouse offices was Sisson's of Sterling, with a bid of $10,980. Today, he reported Norris Tucker submitted a low bid of $2,446 and was awarded a contract to refinish 29 desks which are used by members of the board. Burrs said the two other bidders were Lindquist Construction Co., and Williams Upholstery.

The property committee chairman also revealed the gross proceeds from the sale of surplus property of the county amounted to $1,497.50.

Topper informed the board a farmer who cultivates land adjacent to a three-acre cemetery plot at the old nursing home which the county still owns has asked to be permitted to till the cemetery ground which is not used for graves in exchange for maintaining the appearance of the graveyard.

The matter was referred to the County Services Committee with instruction to have the state's attorney draw a lease to be signed by the farmer and permit him to cultivate the land.

William Kant, District 1, chairman, County Services Committee, told the board the Northwest Illinois Council of Public Officials has passed a resolution objecting to the proposed move of the Sterling office of the State Police to Rock Island.

He asked the board to pass such a motion and forward to the state police official and to legislators. The request was considered on a voice vote which was close but Koch ruled it passed.

Sexton objected to the motion, asserting, 'Somebody is trying to cut the cost of government by the move of the Sterling office of the state police and here we are asking that it not be done.

'We would take no notice of such a move at What difference does it make," he demanded.

"We will get the same police protection; there will be the same number of troopers working." Paul Hamersmith, District 3, a member of the county services committee, suggested the group thought if the state police headquarters are closer the agency could be more help to local police.

Kant commented, "My experience has been sour on consolidation, they claim there will be some economy but usually the moves have not reduced

The board refused to remove from the table the request by Kreider Services for $15,000 to assist in the funding of the Agency's building program.

A motion to table the request was passed during the morning session of the board. The motion dictated it remain on the table until such time as the entire financing package of the agency for its building program is made known to the board.

The Nursing and Welfare Committee advised the board the county owns two shares of stock in the Dixon Cooperative Association which have a par value of $5 and asked what to do with them.

After some discussion, Dunphy made a motion to sell the stock and to use the proceeds to purchase dog food for the nursing home, noting "They have a dog out there." The board concurred with the sug-

Is this federal agency really necessary?

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)— The story goes that a prominent U.S. senator was asked what Congress would do when the new consumer advocacy agency he had proposedgot out of hand, as it inevitably

His answer was quick and simple: "Set up a new agency to watch and regulate it.

In Washington, there are dozens of offices and an assortment of agencies, whose job it is to watch out for the interests of consumers.

They do an abominable job-at great expense.

Some become captives of the industries they are supposed to watch. Some get so involved in petty detail, in the collection of reports and the arguing of legal niceties, that they forget their objective is consumer protection, not paperwork and cases decided on bases so mushy they accomplish nothing. A strong block in Congress is again pushing for a new agency to oversee all government consumer protection agencies and departments-and all other government agencies as well.

That new agency would be empowered to seek or mandate court action.

It would, if established, decide what is in the consumer interest. But there is no provision in the proposed law by which the agency would accurately determine consumer interests. Scholars I've talked to believe it inevitable that the agency, like the agencies it would monitor, would be. forced to depend on information supplied by pressure groups. There's a strong body of academic opinion that this body would thus become prisoner of one vested interest or an-

Unlike congressmen, forced by elections to keep in touch, however poorly, with constituents, the bureaucrats would be largely isolated behind the walls of their Washington offices, developing their own concepts of consumer interest, influenced largely by special interests. Congress has an agency—the General Accounting Offices—which has the power to check on agencies and departments responsible for protecting the consumer. Congressional committees have staffs and the legal means to require accountings from any agency or department falling down on its job.

Most congressional committees are charged with oversight-which means that they are supposed to be watchdogs.

More students of the Senate and House are coming to believe this job of overseeing or watching what they have created is as important or more important than writing a multiplicity of new laws each year.

What Congress is doing then is passing the buck.

The proposed agency for consumer advocacy is, it appears, simply another attempt by Congress to run away from its job and lay its failure to some executive agency created as a diversion or lightning

As one scholar recently put it, the new consumer agency would deflect the attention of consumers from Congress and the regulatory agencies, defusing some of the political demand for less industry-oriented

But Congress will, by all past evidence, give as little attention to the new agency as it has to the old agencies it gave birth to in past years. And so it will fail.

But not until it has wrapped us with a good deal of red tape.

Even so, it will live on. For a succession of administration and Congresses has found it impossible to reform or abolish agencies once instituted and set in motion.

Blind, unemployed and totally frustrated

By TOM TIEDE WASHINGTON (NEA) - Last January, after nearly three decades of schooling, Ray Tricomo began looking with high hopes and wide dreams for a job. He would become a teacher, or perhaps an administrator, there were, after all, so many things to be done in the world. Today, after sending out 350 work applications, all of which have been rejected, Tricomo's early cheer has turned sour by the realization that despite his education and skills, 'Nobody wants me and nobody wants my energies.

It was Tricomo's terrible misfortune to offer himself to the nation on the leading edge of near economic disaster. Even now, labor people estimate, there are 8 to 10 million people seeking jobs that are not available, and official statistics indicate at least 1,584,000 college-educated people are part of this nightmare.

But Tricomo's circumstances have no doubt been affected by another adversity: He's been blind since infancy. His schooling. then, is somewhat presumptuous. A bachelor of arts in education and a master of arts in African history would win employment for anyone persistent enough to distribute 350 job applications. But a blind man? Apparently not. Tricomo has been turned down for everything from a superintendency in a small Connecticut school system to a staff instructor slot in —gad—Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. ("I will," he says, "go anywhere to get out of this prison I'm in.")

There are blind teachers in America, a few, but in general the nonsighted are not welcome in academia. Some years ago in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., a teacher was fired after going blind after several years on the job-the reason being, as a school board member charged, a man without eyes "can't find Afghanistan on the map." That teacher sued to win a reversal of such stone age prejudice, but Tricomo says he has no intention of doing the same. In the first place, proving job discrimination, particularly in hard times, is difficult and costly. Besides, Tricomo does not want to work for anyone not wanting him.

He is not, however, taking his forced idleness quietly. Using himself as the example of the multitudes of unemployed in America, he has taken to writing his disgust for the status quo to authorities in Washington. The response was predictable. A Michigan resident (Harper Woods, outside Detroit), Tricomo naturally has contacted Gerald Ford, he says, "without so much as a comma in reply." of 10 Congress people also written to, only two have bothered to agree things are rotten.

Small wonder then that Ray Tricomo, at 32 years old, highly trained but apparently unnecessary to his nation, has turned philosophically bitter. "Never mind that I'm blind," he says, he can see "this is an age of ugliness and garbage." The government. he says, has decided that full employment is unwise, that six or seven million jobless is actually to be welcomed over the next few years, and so people have been replaced by expediencies, by laissez faire economics, and "by a let-the-people starve" sentiment.

If the latter opinion is overly harsh, it does hint of truth as well as frustration. Presidential economists say the government can not afford to pay the price of higher employment, so instead it pays $22 billion in tax rebates and an annual rate of $20 billion for unemployment compensation. Spent otherwise, this $42 billion would put five million on salary for a year of public work, but people, as Tricomo says, are not figured into government arithmetic.

So it is that Tricomo, approaching middle age but still being supported by his parents, wonders with agony whether this is a government of, by and for the people or of, by and for whatever narrow political ideology that happens to be in vogue. For his part, Tricomo has considered leaving "a nation that doesn't want me," but stays on in what he sees as refugee status, still hoping to prove to America that its government attitude that has been wrong about him and those millions like him who are being denied the dignity of employment.

"What we must decide in this nation," he says, "is whether we want jobs and hope for all, or cheap gimmicks for those able to afford them." The answer seems obvious. There are none so blind as those who won't see.

President no match for bureaucrats

By DON OAKLEY

For all the talk about "the imperial presidency" and the abuse of executive power, the fact of the matter is that a president is to a startling degree at the mercy not only of Congress but of a horde of invisible bureaucrats who are virtually immune to executive discipline.

So says university professor and columnist John P. Roche, who bases the statement on his experience as a speech writer and advisor to Lyndon B. Johnson.

Harry Truman was right when he said "the buck stops here." That is, it is the president's obligation to settle policy. From inside, however, says Roche, "you rapidly learn that the real problem is to get important decisions where they belong: on the desk in the Oval Office."

Stopping the buck at the top "does not call for displays of courage as much as it does for an efficient espionage apparatus to guarantee that key decisions are not being made by invisible bureaucrats. to make sure the buck does not stop someplace else.'

The armor of this bureaucracy is civil service tenure, provided by Congress to about 98 per cent of the administrative establishment and originally considered a great reform designed to eliminate the spoils system. Roche discovered that he was one of only about 700 members of the thousands in the Johnson administration whom the President could summarily fire.

The real battle in Washington, he claims, is not between the administration and Congress. "It is between the president and a secret alliance of the legislature and the bureaucracy, who share the common objective of cutting the president down. It is almost impossible to exaggerate the ingenuity displayed by the bureaucracy in stonewalling a presidential policy, he says. Take the example of the supply of deadly poisons retained by the CIA in defiance of a presidential order.

How could the president have found out about it? The CIA director didn't tell him. By getting one of the invisible men down about five layers to squeal on another? Actually, says Roche, most episodes of this sort surface because of a personal grudge leading to an anonymous tip to a congressman or journalist.

Ironically, in his effort to create the power the textbooks say he had, Richard Nixon set in motion a train of events leading to congressional predominance unmatched in his-

In search of transportation policy

WASHINGTON (LENS)— Just what is the federal government's policy on transport? Congress has been demanding a reply since 1970, three years after the umbrella Department of Transportation was set up and only got it last week.

William Coleman, who has been the department's head for a matter of months, does not pretend that he has all the answers; his ideas, he says, are designed to provide a basis for discussion. That is realistic.

Though many of his proposals are familiar, such as those for giving transport industries more flexibility to fix their own prices and more freedom from regulation, that does not mean that they will be easy to carry out. Even inside the administration a fierce fight is being waged at this very moment over who shall control mergers. At present this power lies with the regulatory agencies and approved mergers are exempt from prosecution on antitrust grounds. The Department of Transportation wants this state of things to continue; the Department of Justice disagrees strongly.

Congress is an even bigger hurdle, and it will have the last word over proposals to introduce more equity into the distribution of federal assistance. At present a third of the total goes to shipping; mass transport, a newcomer, comes next, followed by aviation and road transport, with the railways, which have to provide and maintain their own track, trailing far behind. Coleman wants the barge operators to pay taxes for the use of the waterways which the federal government keeps up at a cost of over $500 million a year. Road transport may be asked to pay more than it does for the use of roads built at vast expense to the taxpayer. Coleman is not one of those visionaries who dream of the day when all urban Americans will use public transport. The car, he says, is the most universally accepted means of transport. But it must be made less polluting and more energy efficient and it must be used responsibly.

By responsibly he means that cars cannot continue to have unlimited access to the centers of big cities. Already there are plans to ask certain cities to cooperate in creating experimental "auto-free" areas.

Public transport, however, also needs some discipline. Coleman noted that costly commuter railway systems are suitable only for a handful of big metropolitan areas; in general money is better spent on buses and underground systems. What he wants-and he can withhold money to get it-is for communities to consider carefully what is the best mix of cars, taxis and public transport to meet their needs.

Since 1971, City National Bank and Trust Company has offered Free Checking – no strings attached – when you keep a minimum of $200 in a personal checking account.

Needless to say, it is one of the most popular services we have ever offered. Despite this, people still have questions about Free Checking, questions we feel our experience qualifies us to answer.

- What makes free checking free? The complete absence of the traditional monthly service charges.
- How do I qualify? Maintain a minimum balance of $200 and you will not pay a service charge.
- Do you furnish me with free checks? No. You select and purchase the style and quantity of checks you prefer. Note: no bank we are aware of does furnish "free checks."
- How many checks may I write free? As many as you wish. No service charge when you maintain a $200 balance.
- What happens if my balance falls below $200? A small service charge is made only for the month it is below the minimum.
- How much money can I save in a year? It varies with each individual, but if you multiply the monthly service charge you are now paying by 12, you'll find a substantial saving with City National's No-Strings-Attached Free Checking.

Hood-Snyder wedding

Hood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howell C. Hood, Rockford, and Robert Snyder, Sterling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter I. Snyder, Sterling, were united in marriage Sept. 20 at St. John's Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Donald D. Pritz officiated at the nuptial service while Grayson Brottmiller, Sterling, accompa-nied soloist Tony Arreguin, Rockford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white floor-length gown of cotton polyester trimmed with lace and designed with a V-neckline and bishop sleeves. A lace face framer held a fingertip veil. Her jewelry was a heart-shaped locket, her gift from the groom. She also wore matching antique gold earrings given to her by her father, and her grandmother's beirloom bracelet. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white phalaenopsis orchids, Sonia roses, Contessa stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy with peach lace ribbons.

Miss Kimberly Cook, Rockford, was maid of honor, while Miss Lynn Ringler, Dixon, served as bridesmaid. They wore floor-length gowns in light blue with coral rose print designed with a square neckline and empire waist. Their bouquets combined dusty blue feathered carnations, white Starburst pompons, blue star flowers, stephanotis and baby's breath

Rodney Sweitzer, Sterling, served as best man. Groomsman was Dana Abney, Sterling. Frank Johnson, Sterling, and Dean Hood, Roodhouse, seated the guests.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church with Miss Cheryl Jacobson, Miss Andrea Nelson, Miss Susan Kunz, Miss Susan McWethy, Mrs. Georgiann Hood, Mrs. Linda Wetzell, Miss Jan Camery, Miss Doris Long

By Oswald & James Jacoby Sherlock Holmes bid his full values and a little extra with today's hand. West opened the king of hearts. East studied carefully, overtook West's king and led back her singleton club.

This brilliant play forced Holmes to adopt extraordinary measures. He cashed his king of diamonds, overtook his queen with dummy's ace and carefully discarded his last heart when East put her jack of diamonds on dummy's 10. East led a heart but it was all over. Holmes ruffed, knocked out the ace of trumps, ruffed the next heart, drew the last trumps and claimed.

Betty Castle, sitting East, had played brilliantly, but not quite brilliantly enough. The club shift was fine, but when she got in with the jack of diamonds she could have led a fourth diamond and cooked Holmes goose.

He would have been forced to ruff high to shut out West's nine. That would take care of one of his honors. He would have had to lead a second one. Betty would win that trick and lead a fifth diamond. Holmes would have to ruff high again and West's nine of trumps would have become a sure win-

Korean nurses settle in Dixon

By KAREN HEY

Almost any night you can pick up the newspaper and read employment ads for registered nurses in local nursing homes.

It was out of the need for nurses at Orchard Glenn, that Dick Belcher, the administrator, decided to hire foreign nurses through a New York personnel agency. He was sent five resumes and chose two Korean applicants who specified living in a rural setting as opposed to metropolitan.

Ge Hee Chung, 24, and Jung Ae Gill, 23, came to Dixon almost four weeks ago. Why would they leave their homeland and family?

Mrs. Kyu Jin Cho, a Korean nurse living in Dixon with her physician husband, explained. 'It is a booming thing in Korea for a woman to be a nurse. The salary is good and it presents an opportunity for women to live and learn more in the United States," she said. Ge Hee and Jung didn't know each other prior to their arrival but Belcher, who says he is their self-appointed guardian, commented that everything is working out well. 'They have to make many adjustments to their work environment, the country and our customs as well as to each other," he said.

Mrs. C. K. Michael Hong, whose husband is also a Korean physician, added that the girls have been lucky to have so many people looking after them. "It wouldn't be that way if they had chosen a place like Chicago to live," said Mrs. Cho. Mrs. Carrie Redebaugh, owner of Orchard Glen, said they have tried to keep the girls busy so they won't get so homesick. They spend much of their free time in the company of the Cho's and Hong's, and other Korean-Dixonites who are able to answer their questions and provide a sense of being back home.

Mrs. Redebaugh said the girls have the same routine duties of any nurse. "They have spent the last couple of weeks just getting to know the staff and residents here."

Ge Hee, who trained in emergency room care, and Jung, whose background is neurosurgery, will take their Illinois Nursing exams in December. Belcher said, "their credentials are such that they were approved to work without taking the test first."

The only problem, said Belcher, has been the language barrier. "They read and write in English very well, but have to accustom themselves to hearing and comprehending conversation." That's where TV helps a lot, said Mrs. Cho.

The girls are not sure how long they will stay in Dixon, but they think it is a quiet and safe place to live for now.

Big names restaurant moochers too

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the restaurant owner who didn't know what to do about those slobs who bought Chinese food at a carryout joint down the street, brought the cartons into his place, took a booth, and helped themselves to the salt and pepper, napkins, and silverware. They soiled the tablecloth, used the washroom,

The mess — including the floor - took 15 minutes to clean up. Of course these people are they, really, from the celebrities who bring their so-called "health food" to the most exclusive bistros in Hollywood? I've seen these Big Names take plastic sacks out of their tote bags, eat the carrots, lettuce, green peppers and radishes, order a glass of skim milk and does the management overlook such nonsense? It irritates me no end. Please comment.

Resident of Beverly Hills, Calif. Dear Beverly: The answer is found in your letter. "Because they are well known.'

There were seven kids in our family. My oldest brother, Jeff, died in 1973, on his 21st birthday. Now there are six kids left four boys and two girls.

Harold is 21, and can't decide what pair of slacks to wear to church. He couldn't stay in a college 40 miles from home because he missed me. He won't date girls because they are "boring." He doesn't have any friends because they are "too rough." In short, the boy is a mess and I'm to blame. I feel better for this confession. Thank you. - Damn Fool Mother

"But another wife reminded me that my husband was an insurance salesman, so he couldn't always be punctual.

"And she said she had learned that most of us wives marry our husbands with secret reservations to change them into our preconceived types of mate.

"So she said she had also been fighting constantly with her husband until she decided to change her own viewpoint and accept him as he was.

"Well, when I mulled over her idea, I had to admit that I was trying to force my husband to fit into my plans, instead of accepting him as he was.

"So the very next night I prepared the salad and dessert but left the steak ready for a quick broiling.

"Sure enough, my husband was late as usual, and didn't open the front door till 8:15.

'He looked a little sheepish and on the defensive, but I smiled sweetly and told him I'd have his steak broiled in five minutes.

"When we then sat down to dinner, I was cheerful, and asked him how he had made out during the day. "In fact, I even managed to

White collar crime seminar in Rockford

ent in charge of the Chicago office, announced today that special law enforcement conferences on "white collar crime" will be sponsored by the FBI as follows: First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 612 N. Main St., Rockford, Oct. 29 from 1 to 5 p.m.

FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley recently announced that the FBI's 59 field offices will present a nationwide series of law enforcement conferences on the expanding problem of white collar crime in America.

He said the conferences, which are designed to assist the law enforcement community in coping with this problem, are restricted to law enforcement personnel, prosecutors, and members of the judiciary.

A focal point of discussion at the conferences will be the FBI's four-pronged program against white collar crime, which includes research, training, intensified investigation, and developing public aware-

According to Director Kelley these annual conferences provide regional forums for supervisory and command-level representatives from the law enforcement community to meet and discuss current matters of mutual interest

These annual conferences have been part of the FBI's crime resistance efforts since 1953, and they are responsive to the concerns of the law enforcement, business, industrial and

Richard G. Held, special professional sectors, Kelley

Last year the FBI's annual law enforcement conferences dealt with kidnaping and hostage situations. A total of 275 conferences were held throughout the nation on that subject and were attended by nearly 26,000 persons representing more than 6,900 agencies.

Director Kelley said that the FBI has made significant progress in the fight against white collar crime. Convictions for such offenses in cases investigated by the FBI rose 16.7 per cent in fiscal year 1975 over 1974 figures, and fines imposed in these cases totaled $4,609,917 for a 46.1 per cent increase during the same period.

Kelley said the war on white collar crime cannot be won until the battle is joined by every local, state and federal element in the criminal justice system. These conferences are toward ficials appear to have brightened the state's financial out-Representatives from the executive, judicial and legislative branches of government met Tuesday and announced agreement on a plan to solve the state's temporary cash flow This plan involves a voluntary agreement among the officials to tell each other when they plan to deposit or withdraw money from the general revenue fund.

And a few hours earlier Gov. Daniel Walker's budget experts released new spending and revenue estimates predicting the state will wind up the current fiscal year June 30 with an available balance of $115 mil-

The news was not all good, however.

In his quarterly report, Budget Director Leonard Schaeffer said estimates of welfare spending during the year had been revised upward by $118

It was the first acknowledgement by the Walker administration that public aid expenditures could not be held at the $1.6 billion level originally projected, although others had been predicting that more would be needed for months.

Schaeffer's report estimated fiscal 1976 spending and transfers of $5.6 billion out of the general revenue fund, the account from which welfare checks, school aid and most state bills are paid.

This figure assumes that the General Assembly will not restore any of the cuts in legislative appropriations Walker made through use of his veto According to Schaeffer's figures, restoration of the $140 million cut in school aid made by the governor, for example, would put the state in the red.

Some legislators have said they will seek an override of this veto when the General Assembly reconvenes next week.

The new spending estimate of $5.6 billion is only slightly below the $5.649 billion spending proposal contained in Walker's original budget, presented to the legislature in March.

However, Walker had proposed in June that his original request - except for a few things like welfare payments be cut by 6 per cent because the nation's deepening recession was holding down expected tax revenues.

Since June, Schaeffer said, the economy has improved somewhat and estimates of tax revenues have been revised slightly upward - although they are still below the March figures. However, he said the state would have less total revenues for fiscal 1976 than had been expected in June because of changes in federal aid pro-

The budget director said the balance in the general revenue fund would continue to be low until the end of the fiscal year, when revenues traditionally turn upward. But he said the possibility of cash flow problems - the temporary inability of the state to meet its obligations - had been lessened by the new cash management agreement reached among state officials.

Currently state officials do not exchange information about general revenue fund deposits and withdrawals, although this is done routinely in other states.

The agreement was worked out at a meeting conducted by Harold Hovey, a consultant hired by Walker to improve cash management.

Hovey, a former director of the Bureau of the Budget, said the system would depend upon the voluntary cooperation of officials in expediting revenue deposits and withholding non-essential withdrawals during periods of cash shortage. He said no one had the legal authority to require bills to be paid in a Hovey said this sort of cash management system had been unnecessary in Illinois because the state maintained such a large balance in its general revenue fund "that no conceivable combination of events could run it out of money.'

In recent weeks, however, the amount of money in the general revenue fund has dipped below $100,000, causing temporary delays in the payment of some state bills. However, the state has thus far avoided any delays in sending out paychecks, welfare grants or aid to local Comptroller George Lindberg had warned earlier in the month that the low general revenue fund balance might delay the $97 million monthly school aid payment to local districts.

However, Revenue Director Robert H. Allphin said Tuesday that his office had deposited some $67 million within the past two days, enough, he said, to make the school aid payment

Amboy School Board awards gasoline bids

AMBOY-Members of the Board of Education awarded a contract for gasoline, canvassed the ballots cast in the recent bond referendum, and accepted two resignations of school personnel at a regular business session held Tuesday night in the high school library.

The contract for 1975-76, for providing gasoline for the school buses, went to Fahler Oil Company, Mendota, at 38.6 cents per gallon for Amboy delivery and 39.1 cents per gallon for rural delivery including the rental of storage tanks for the rural areas. This was the lowest of three bids received.

The canvass of the election ballots resulted in the official tally: total of 1,179 votes were cast in the district with 793 yes votes and 371 no. There were 15 spoiled ballots. A resolution was adopted to declare the $730,000 bond issue referendum officially adopted.

Dr. Donald Skidmore, superintendent of schools, advised the board members that the educational specifications for the remodeling of the junior high school have been forwarded to the Capital Development Board at Springfield and that a state supervisor had been assigned to the project to meet with the architectural firm of Berger-Kelley and Associates. A meeting for board members with the architects and the state project director will be held later this month. Dr. Jerome Hochstatter suggested that a citizens advisory committee be formed to serve in an advisory capacity to the board to help develop ideas for the remodeling. Board members are to bring names of persons willing to serve on such a committee to the next meeting.

DEAR DR. LAMB- I am a 61-year-old female weighing about 136 pounds and am 5'6" tall. I do not smoke or drink. A few months ago I had a complete physical examination including blood work, cardiogram and chest X ray.

DEAR READER- Encouragement coming up. In the first place the kind of changes you can see on routine X rays in the arteries is not the kind that causes heart and brain disease. That ought to make you feel better. I am sure your doctor saw the kind we worry less Another change we often see is the formation of calcium in the middle part of the arterial wall. This will make the artery hard, like a lead pipe, but it won't cause it to become obstructed. The calcium is radioopaque, and it can be seen on the X ray. These deposits are commonly present in the wall of the main big artery, the aorta,

Northland Mall, Sterling, Illinois

By The Associated Press Urban officials say they are afraid a New York City default will trigger financial crisis in other metropolitan areas, including some that are in sound fiscal condition. Cities already are finding it harder to borrow money, to sell their bonds. They are forced to pay higher interest rates.

"The investor ... is afraid of a New York situation and doesn't have the information about whether it exists in other cities," said Frank Strahsmeier, a partner in William R. Hough & Co., a bond trader in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Although the Ford administration has steadfastly refused to bail out New York, federal officials are beginning to admit that a default could have serious implications for the rest of the country.

An Associated Press study shows that no other city even comes close to New York in terms of the seriousness of its financial problems.

Let's look at the financial health of some of the big cities. Standard & Poor's Municipal Bond Selector showed that as of the end of August, New York City owed more money, in both absolute and relative terms, than any other city.

What does that mean? In absolute terms, New York City's overall bonded debt for which the city taxpayers are responsible was $7.7 billion. The next closest city was Chicago, with an over-all bonded debt of $1.2 billion.

Economists also measure debt in relative terms, however, comparing it to the number of residents, to the value of the city's property and to the income of its citizens.

The New York per capita debt was $983, equal to 9.4 per cent of the city's property value. Per capita debt represented just over 20 per cent of per capita income.

In Chicago, the nation's second largest city, per capita debt was $363, equal to 3.8 per cent of property value. Per capita debt represented only 7 per cent of per capita income.

A look at 20 of the nation's largest cities shows no other city where per capita debt is more than 15 per cent of per capita income. The runner-up to New York, according to Standard & Poor's, is Pittsburgh, where per capita debt is 14.9 per cent of per capita income and overall debt represents 10.3 per cent of property value.

Pittsburgh, however, gets an AA rating from Standard & Poor's on its municipal bonds, meaning that the rating service believes the Pennsylvania city is very unlikely to default or fail to pay part of its debt on time.

The higher a city's bond rating, the easier it is for the city to raise money and the lower the interest rate it will have to pay. (The highest rating, AAA, indicates that the experts believe the quality of city management is superior and the payment of the bond when it falls due is a virtual certainty; the double-A bond is only slightly less certain to be paid off on time.)

Standard & Poor's suspended New York City's rating on its general obligation bonds long-term debt — last spring and has not restored it.

Why does Pittsburgh get a double-A while New York City doesn't get a rating at all?

One reason is that debt isn't the only factor taken into consideration by Standard & Poor's and Moody's Investor Service, the other main rating agency.

They also look at long-range local improvement plans. at general financial operations, at the over-all health of the region's economy and at spend-years, engaged in a series of budgeting techniques criticized by economists. It has borrowed money, year after year, on a short-term basis to cover deficits that occurred when revenues didn't live up to expectations and spending exceeded them. Pittsburgh has

New York City also spends more money on various services, paying for items like welfare and education which, in other areas, are financed by county, state and federal governments or by separate taxing districts.

The Tax Foundation Inc. reports that for fiscal 1973, the latest year for which complete statistics are available, New York spent $1,224 for every resident, including $296 for education and $315 on welfare. Pittsburgh spent $216 per resident, including less than a dime on welfare and education com-

If no one else is in as bad shape as New York, why is everyone so worried?

"New York's problems ... have a snowballing effect on the marketplace," said Henry G. Simmons, the New Orleans director of finance.

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns said, "Many soundly run, creditworthy communities and public agencies could have great difficulty or suffer excessive costs in raising needed funds ... The process of economic recovery now under way in our nation could be injured.'

There are two separate but overlapping groups of cities which would be adversely affected if New York City defaults.

First are those cities - mainly in the East - which have serious, long-term financial problems. The problems are not so critical as those in New York, but they are similar. Urban experts generally believe that these cities can and will recover if they are given time, but they warn that a default might take away that time. Financial analysts differ about which city is in worst shape, but the list of trouble spots includes Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Buffalo, N.Y.

The second group of cities includes areas with outstanding bond anticipation notes. A bond anticipation note is a city IOU, sold to an investor with the promise that it will be paid off after future bond issue is sold and the short-term debt is converted into long-term debt. These notes are not backed by local taxes or revenues. (They are different from the so-called general obligation bonds that make up over-all bonded debt.)

A New York City default would temporarily make it very difficult for the cities with anticipation notes to float a longterm bond to pay off these short-term debts. They would have to find the money somewhere else or face default.

An Associated Press spot check showed the cities on the second list include Cleveland: Philadelphia; Lincoln, Neb.; Columbus, Ohio; Boston and

Cleveland, Philadelphia and Buffalo are on both lists, but the shock of default would not New York City has, for many necessarily hit these cities first. It could hit Lincoln, Boston or Columbus, depending on the timing of default and when the notes are due. Boston treasurer James Young said his city has $30 million in anticipation notes that come due Nov. 24. "I 'hink we would be able to refinance or sell the bonds," he said, but added: "That's not to say I don't have major fears (of what would happen if New York defaults.)'

James Lebenthal, executive vice president of Lebenthal & Co., a bond house, estimates that the fear of a New York City default has cost municipal borrowers $1.84 billion this year in extra interest.

'This is what the brinksmanship of default already has cost city taxpayers and they got nothing for it," he said.

BLOOMINGTON- The Dukes of Elmhurst (York) will be out to regain the throne they lost last fall when 439 downstate and suburban schools send runners to the starting line at the District level of the 30th Illinois High School Association (IHSA) boys cross-country series at 24 sites at 11 a.m. Saturday. A year ago, 443 schools entered the series

Last fall, gunning for a record-tying fourth straight team title, Coach Joe Newton's York team was ambushed by Chicago Hts. (Bloom), which took the championship by five points (91-96). York returns five of the seven runners who started at the 1974 State Final, including senior Ron Craker, who ranks as the pre-District favorite to take individual honors. York will begin the drive for the school's team title No. 7 at the Glen Ellyn (Glenbard South) District.

District meets are scheduled for Saturday on courses where the host school will be: Benton, Bloomington, Champaign (Centennial), Decatur (Stephen Decatur), Edwardsville, Elk Grove Village (Elk Grove), Glen Ellyn (Glenbard South), Highland Park, Kewanee, Lebanon, Lemont (St. Vincent de Paul), Loves Park (Harlem), Maple Park (Kaneland), Norridge (Ridgewood), Olney (East Richland), Ottawa, Palatine, Palos Hts. The top five placing teams and the top 10 individual runners from the Districts advance to the eight Sectionals, which are scheduled to be hosted Oct. 25 by Centralia, Glen Ellyn (Glenbard West), Lake Forest, Oak Park-River Forest, Peoria (Richwoods), Princeton, Rantoul and Springfield (Southeast). Sectionals also will get under way at 11 a.m.

Advancing from the Sectionals to the state final meet on Nov. 1-which again will be hosted by Peoria (Central) and will be conducted over the three-mile layout at scenic Detweiller Park on the north edge of the city-will be the first three placing teams and the top 10 individuals. They will be joined by the top two teams and top 10 individuals from the Chicago Public League qualifying meet.

York's Craker finished second by 5.7 seconds to Tom Marino of Hillside (Proviso West) in last year's State Final Meet. He toured the hilly course in 14:20, and was one of three underclassmen (all juniors) to finish in the top 10 individually. Dan Gilchrist of Rockford (East) placed third and was only two seconds behind Craker. Jim Keen of Riverside-Brookfield was sixth at 14:29.

Chief challenger to York for the team title this fall could be tiny Leganon, the southeastern Illinois community which has produced outstanding distance runners, including all-time standout Craig Virgin. The Greyhounds are led by senior Don Burns and junior Greg Hogg and return six of the seven runners who competed in the State Final Meet last fall.

The Detweiller Park layout, considered by many to be one of the most beautiful and challenging harrier courses in Illinois, overlooks the Illinois River and is adjacent to Ill. Route 29 north of Peoria. Lebanon's Virgin holds the threemile course record of 13:50.6, which he established in taking individual honors in 1972 as a senior. The State Final Meet will be run over Detweiller Park for the sixth straight year.

Since 1962, when Elmhurst (York) won its first team title, the Dukes have claimed the championship also in 1965, 1968, 1971, 1972, 1973 and have finished in the runner-up spot in 1964, 1969, and 1974.

Taking part at Sterling will be Amboy, Ashton, Chadwick, Dixon, Elizabeth, Forreston, Freeport, Mt. Morris, Oregon, Pecatonica, Polo, Prophetstown, Rock Falls, Scales Mound, Shannon, Newman and Sterling.

Cross-Country SHABBONA— Ashton and Forreston tied for the Class A crown while the Amboy Clippers grabbed the Class AA title, here, Saturday at the Shabbona Invitational cross-country meet.

Ashton and Forreston both notched 28 points to deadlock for the small schools crown, while Hampshire took third with 80 and Shabbona fourth with 97. Forreston's Steve Denekas took individual honors with a 15:30 clocking for the 2.7mile course.

Ashton teammates John Martinez, Ed Baylor and Tom Krause finished behind Denekas, while Forreston then swept spots five through seven as Merrill Kaney, Jeff Funk and Pete Williams ended in that or-

Gary Kofoid of Ashton was eighth, Brian Brown of Forreston ninth and Don Stoxten of Hampshire 10th. Dean Dvorak of Ashton finished 11th.

Amboy had little trouble in Class AA as the Clippers ended with 28 points to 68 for Yorkville, Oregon's 82, Plano's 87, 121 for Stillman Valley and Polo's 141. Greg Grubb of Stillman Valley won the race in 14:53 followed by Amboys Dale Eller, Steve Jent of Plano, Luke Schier of Oregon, Amboy teammates Jim Grady, Brian Zimmerman and Rick Farringer. Dave Torres of Yorkville and Amboy's Calvin Dewey rounded out the top 10. Marv Hollaway of Oregon was 14th.

WFL to stay, for now NEW YORK (AP) — There always end up implying that 13,323

had been indications that the World Football League, suffering woeful financial losses, would fold. After a two-day meeting, however, it has become apparent they won't face liquidation — for the time being, anyway.

"All 10 teams are returning to their cities with new and innovative marketing plans which, in effect, should increase fan attendance and thereby continue to firm up the stability of the league," said WFL President Chris Hemmeter Tuesday, when the decisive meeting broke. It was one of the few comments Hemmeter would make, adding that the second-year enterprise no longer would discuss its problems in public.

'We will not entertain questions about the future of the the WFL is weak and its future is questionable," said Hemmeter. "We are not going to indulge in any more speculation about the viability of the league because its viability, to us, has never been questionable.

That left others to ask what future looms for the league when its Philadelphia Bell averages 3,705 per game. And what of other cities - like Portland and San Antonio where franchises languish in pools of red ink? The Thunder was in such trouble last week that the nine other teams were assessed $300,000 to keep it going. The Wings, according to a published report, need $450,000 to finish the season

"Revenues are far less than my associates and I anticipated," Hemmeter admitted in a statement underscored by the league because such questions league's average attendance:

The Hemmeter plan of player payment, which functioned largely on a break-even attendance of 17,000 per game, has fallen by the wayside in many cases because teams haven't approached breaking even at the gate. Most players had signed contracts promising one per cent of their team's gate receipts against a minimum of $500. But that figure has whittled down to $250 in San Antonio and at Jacksonville, where forecast losses are $700,-000 this season.

Hence the 15 hours of meetings here, which included discussion of the alternatives remaining to the club owners. 'We are exploring all directions to save the league," Hemmeter had said Monday. "We just don't want the league to go

Pack faces the Cowboys

GREEN BAY, Wis. - As a man who maneuvered the Packers to five world championships in a seven year span, a feat which remains unique in National Football League history, Bart Starr obviously knows how to win.

Which had to make what transpired in New Orleans' Superdome, Sunday particularly unpalatable to Mr. Quarterback, who watched his Packers permit an early 16-0 lead dissolve into a fourth straight defeat, 20-19.

Yet, before putting this latest disappointment behind him to begin focusing on next Sunday's date with the unbeaten Cowboys in Dallas, he reaffirmed his faith in them Starr's compassion for his players also clearly weighed more heavily with him than a personal consideration, the knowledge that he is still seeking his first NFL coaching victory.

"We have some tough people," he told the press corps during the grim aftermath of that last play loss, indicating he expects his team to rebound with a strong effort in Dallas.

"I'm sorry those who gave so much had to have this happen to them," he said, adding emphatically, "The reverse would have been true had we won, because they had a number of people who also gave so much.

"But there has to be a winner and a loser. There's joy and elation when you win and dejection and depression when you lose. That's why it's so great to win." Earlier, Starr indicated he had experienced both emotions during that bizarre and incredible afternoon in the Superdome, which had seen the Packers vault into a 14-0 lead in the first 65 seconds on a 93-yard kickoff return by Steve Odom and a 19-yard run with a the Packer coach said. "Our emotions were very, very high when we went ahead on Joe Danelo's field goal, 19-17. And then they moved the ball and kicked a field goal to win on the last play . . . It's very upsetting, but you have to live with Along the way, injuries had com-had caused some problems, noting, "We went through a lot of bodies, and some of them haven't played that much. It hurts your continuity. That's what happens when people go down."

He was quick to add, however, "That shouldn't be an excuse for losing." The early lead could have been more of a blight than a blessing in the final analysis, he said.

"We may have relaxed a little when we got that quck 14-point cushion," he said. "We just didn't go out and attack them the way we should have."

Turning his attention to Dallas, and game five in Texas Stadium, Starr said. "The Cowboys are extremely formidable. We've got to lick our wounds quickly and not be feeling sorry for ourselves, or they'll bury us ... They're a fine, fine football team."

NOTE-WORTHY:

Mike McCoy's first quarter touchdown was not only his first as a Packer but his first ever. "I practiced 12 years for that one," he said. Too bad it couldn't have come in a victory. It would have been a lot sweeter.'

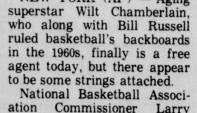

Steve Odom's 90-yard kickoff return was his second scoring runback as a Packer. He returned a punt 95 yards for a touchdown against the Bears in 1974 to establish a club record. Sunday's runback also was the longest regular season kickoff return by a Packer since Dec. 6, 1970, when Larry Krause engineered a 100-yard excursion at Pittsburgh.

Terry Wells 72-yard production was the best rushing performance by a Packer this season, as was his 25-yard run in the first quarter.

Punter Steve Broussard delivered the Packers' longest punt of the season, 51 yards, a figure he attained twice during the contest. He also compiled his best average to date, 42.8 yards for 8 punts.

Big Red Machine is in the driv- into center field and the Reds er's seat of the World Series, suddenly had runners on second thanks to some sudden power and third base because of the and a spark from a home plate error.

The Cincinnati Reds unlimbered their big guns and turned a controversial play at home to their advantage for a 6-5, 10-inning victory Tuesday night and a 2-1 lead in baseball's Fall Classic

In tonight's fourth game, the Reds send left-hander Fred Norman against Boston righthanded ace Luis Tiant at 8:30 p.m. EDT.

"We won tonight because we're lucky ... because the pleasant to say about Barnett good Lord takes care of us," said Manager Sparky Ander-

Anderson could think of no other way to describe the Reds' bittersweet victory in Game 3 a pulsating, tense affair that had everything, including the most talked-bout play of the 1975 World Series so far. This was the situation: with the game tied at 5-5 and a runner at first in the 10th inning, Anderson ordered pinch hitter Ed Armbrister to lay down a sacrifice bunt. Armbrister did as expected, but something unexpected followed.

The ball hopped a few feet in front of home plate and Boston catcher Carlton Fisk charged to field it. He had difficulty getting to it, however, because Armbrister was in his way.

When Fisk picked up the ball, he threw toward second base in an attempt to get the lead run- He just shrugged and didn't say

CINCINNATI (AP) — The ner. But the throw was wild

The play triggered a protest from the Boston bench, particularly Fisk and Manager Darrell Johnson. They felt the batter had interfered with Fisk's play and therefore should have been called out by home plate umpire Larry Barnett.

The play became all the more crucial, because the Reds loaded the bases and went on to win the contest on Joe Morgan's single.

A seething Fisk had nothing after the bitter defeat at Riverfront Stadium.

"He blew it two ways," the Boston catcher said of Barnett. 'The first time was when he didn't call interference on the play. The second time was when he didn't call the man out because I probably tagged him after I got the ball.'

Johnson was equally in-

"I don't need to read the rule out of the rule book," he said. 'We all know the rule and Armbrister did interfere with Fisk. The man is entitled to run to first base, but the runner can not come into contact with the fielder before he has the opportunity to field it.

"I went up to the plate umpire and when I didn't get any satisfaction, I went to the first base umpire. I didn't get any satisfaction from him, either.

anything. Their interpretation of the rule is obviously different from mine. Barnett, of course, had his own interpretation of the rules. as did the Cincinnati camp.

"I ruled that it was simply a collision," Barnett said. "It is interference only when the batter intentionally gets in the way of the fielder. I signalled that the ball was fair and in play."

Dick Stello, the first base umpire who backed up Barnett during the heated Boston protests on the field, said: "It was not interference. In such a situation, the batter has as much right to go to first base as the fielder has to go for the ball. To make it interference, the batter would have had to intentionally try to impede the fielder from going for the ball.

He did not do this. As was expected, Armbrister swore up and down that he did nothing intentional to block Fisk's way

"I hit the ball in front of the plate and it bounced high," said the player in the middle of the dramatic controversy. "I started to break for first and Fisk just came from behind and bumped me. The play was behind me, and if he hit from behind, I would say he interfered with me.'

If it wasn't for what Sparky Anderson called his "stupid" mistake, the whole business wouldn't have happened.

The Reds had a 5-3 lead going into the ninth inning with reliever Will McEnaney seemingly in control of things.

ace struck out Fred Lynn for the first out and the crowd of 55,392 at Riverfront settled back for what looked like a comfortable Cincinnati victory.

Then McEnaney gave up a single to Rico Petrocelli and Anderson brought in Rawly Eastwick to face Dwight Evans. He didn't face him too long, for the Boston outfielder promptly parked one of his pitches into the left field seats to tie the game and send it to-ward its unpredictable climax.

"I made a dumb mistake, it's as simple as that," Anderson said. "I should have had Eastwick in there a batter earlier pitching to Petrocelli. I waited one batter too long to bring in a right-hander against Petro-

Cesar Geronimo got things started in the 10th with a single and moved to third on the controversial bunt play. The Red Sox issued an intentional walk to Pete Rose to load the bases. Pinch hitter Mery Rettenmund struck out before Morgan came through.

Earlier, Johnny Bench hit a two-run homer for the Reds in the fourth. And Dave Concepcion and Geronimo blasted homers in the fifth, when Cincinnati scored three times. Before Evans' game-tying wallop, the Red Sox got solo homers from Fisk in the second and Bernie Carbo in the seventh. The total of six shots tied a World Series record for most homers by two teams in a CINCINNATI (AP) — Carlton Fisk of the Boston Red Sox angrily criticized plate umpire Larry Barnett for a con-troversial call Tuesday night which set up the Cincinnati Reds for the winning run in the 10th inning of the third World Series game.

"He blew it two ways," Fisk

"The first time was when he didn't call interference on the play. The second was when he didn't call the man out after I got the ball and tagged him."

Fisk seethed inwardly for a couple of minutes, refusing to talk to writers. Then he sounded off as did just about everyone else in the Boston

"You might as well throw a cross body block on the catcher, knock him down and go to first," Fisk said. "It's a damn shame to have a call like that in such a game. I think it was a double play ball except for the interference. Instead, I get hit, throw the ball into center field and they wind up with runners on second and third and none out." Fisk said that Barnett told him there was no interference on the play, "but he wouldn't

"Fisk was jostled and bumped," Johnson added. "A man has to have a chance to field a ball. He can't be touched by a runner until he has the chance.

Johnson said he had seen similar plays during his quarter century in baseball, but the umpires always called interference.

"But I've never seen any such play in a game anywhere near as big as this one.'

Johnson said he had no recourse because it was a judgment call on the part of the

JOHNNY BENCH

Cincinnati's 10th-inning, 6-5 victory over Boston propelled the National League champions into a 2-1 World Series lead. "Somebody was looking over our shoulders," said Bench, after the Reds capitalized on home plate umpire Larry Barnett's favorable call on a controversial bunt play.

"I had a feeling it was going to be a play where he (Red Sox catcher Carlton Fisk) hit me or I hit him," said pinch-hitter Ed Armbrister, whose bunt triggered the storm of controversy after the two collided after the ball was tapped.

"I don't feel I interfered. I didn't step back to get in his way," he said.

Barnett saw it the same way despite a heated dispute from Red Sox Manager Darrell John-How did Cincinnati Manager

Sparky Anderson see it? "I can only say that whenever you hit a ball, you have the opportunity to run to first base," he said. "It was strictly a judgment call and we can't argue with the umpires' judgment. Joe Morgan's bases-loaded line drive over drawn-in centerfielder Fred Lynn settled the outcome, but he shook off questions about whether the crucial triumph was tainted. 'We're ahead 2-1, let them say what they want. The rules say we're ahead 2-1," snapped Morgan.

Bench said he didn't get a clear view of the game-turning play, "So I asked Sparky what happened. He said 'it was not interference."

Earlier, Bench helped spark the Reds to a 5-1 lead with a two-run homer off Red Sox starter Rick Wise in the fourth. Dave Concepcion and Cesar Geronimo added back-to-back solo blasts in the fifth.

But Boston clawed back, jumping on Cincinnati's vaunted bullpen for two late-inning home runs. "We're all pushing a little extra hard," said Bench. "But I was very disappointed. I wasn't very proud of the way we played."

Morgan added dismay over the Cincinnati letdown. "Some-sary was determined I wouldn't strike out. I stayed with the pitch and hit it straight away," said the all-star second base-

It was the second time in three Series games that the Cincinnati bullpen had its problems, and Anderson acknowledged concern.

"I am disappointed with our losing the lead in the ninth because all season long we have been consistent in holding leads we took into the ninth inning," he said. Rawly Eastwick came up with his second series victory, despite a two-run homer in the ninth by Dwight Evans that tied it at 5-5.

INTERNATIONAL® CADET 85 SPECIAL RIDING MOWER WITH GRASS CATCHER

When the grass stops grow ing, the Cadet 85 Special riding mower keeps working. Because the optional grass catcher picks up leaves as well as clippings. And you can insert a common plastic refuse bag inside the hamper. When the bag's full, just tie off and toss. The 85 Special gets going fast and keeps powering through tough grass and weeds. Pick up your Cadet 85 Special today, because it's quick on the pick up for autumn chores, too.

Lhere was an old woman who lived in a shoe, She had so little storage space she didn't know what to do. So she ran a Dixon Evening Telegraph Classified Ad And gained space by selling the 'extras' she had.

She made more money than she'd ever had before,

So she polished the house and "soled" the floor.
